Repaving part of the South County Trailway, which started last spring, wrapped up with a press conference on the morning of Friday, June 3. Westchester County Executive George Latimer led the event, which was held alongside Life: The Place to Be on Lawrence Street in Ardsley.

The $3.1 million project rebuilt the 6.4-mile section of the trailway from Barney Street in Yonkers to Route 119 in Elmsford. Parking lots for the trailway were also repaved, including the Farragut Avenue lot off Exit 13 of the northbound Saw Mill River Parkway.
